

ARIZONA OSTEOPATHIC MEDICAL DIGEST

• GRAPEVINE •

---

---

- STEPHEN DAVIDSON, D.O., REVIEWS . . . "THE CRANIAL CONNECTION" contains the all-important anatomical concepts, histological research, and philosophical background necessary to understand osteopathy in the cranial field. Twenty three well-drawn, simple-to-understand illustrations easily enable the reader to visually grasp ideas presented in the text. In addition, the bibliography provides a good source of available literature.

This information fills the gap between introductory pamphlets and technique manuals. It is a documented primer containing the research concepts necessary to understand the cranial approach. A novice or seasoned professional in the field would easily grasp the concepts as presented in this text.

This manuscript was originally designed as a report for a class in physiological psychology at Arizona State University. The author, Carolyn Inabinet, is a long time osteopathic patient who has become quite familiar with osteopathic manipulative treatment and its possibilities. After reading the manuscript, the author and I decided that her report filled a much needed void in literature available for cranial osteopathy. THE CRANIAL CONNECTION will help bridge the knowledge gap when the osteopathic approach is discussed with health professionals.

---

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE
DEPARTMENT OF BIOMECHANICS

EAST LANSING • MICHIGAN • 48824

April 22, 1987

Carolyn Inabinet
8809 North 17th Lane
Phoenix, Arizona 85021

Dear Carolyn,

Thank you for sending a copy of your publication, "The Cranial Connection". I have read it and want to congratulate you for your fine publication. Recently I attended the American Academy of Osteopathy meeting in Ohio. Many doctors spoke of your work in a most favorable manner. It should be a best seller!

In response to your request for some information sheets about "The Cranium and its Sutures", I have contacted Carolyn Newman, Springer-Verlag, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY, 10010. She said that she would send them directly to you. I trust they have arrived by now.

I have need for an additional copy of "The Cranial Connection". Enclosed is an order with payment.

I trust that all is well with you.

Best regards,

Ernest W. Retzlaff, Ph.D.
Professor

EWR/sh

Enclosure

To order your copy of The Cranial Connection
please send $29.95 to:

PRACTICAL PUBLICATIONS
1303 W. Bethany Home Road
Phoenix, AZ 85013

AZ: 602-246-8977
USA: 800-359-7772

Please call us for our FREE Health Aid Catalog!